

Online Collections at Your Fingertips

The library at the LPI organizes and maintains a collection of space-science-related materials in a variety of media, including a unique collection of planetary mission images and documents in the LPI's Regional Planetary Image Facility. Reference services are provided to scientists, educators, students, media representatives, and the public requesting information related to lunar and planetary science.

LPI's unique library collection includes:

- Historical documents from the Apollo program
- Negatives, positives, and prints from missions
- Over 64,000 cataloged books, documents, maps, globes, and videos
- A dedicated children's section containing over 1,400 items

"Great resource with great support staff. Everything you ever wanted to know about planetary science is right there at your fingertips."
