

Arizona Geological Society Digest 21

Desert Heat - Volcanic Fire

The Geologic History of the Tucson Mountains and Southern Arizona

by
David A. Kring

Published by
The Arizona Geological Society
2002

Available from
The Arizona Geological Survey
<http://www.azgs.state.az.us/>

Desert Heat - Volcanic Fire
The Geologic History of the Tucson Mountains and Southern Arizona

By D. A. Kring 104 p., softbound, 2002, $16.00

Title Page
Frontispiece
Table of Contents

Preface

- Chapter 1: ... Introduction
- Chapter 2: ... The Tucson Mountains
- Chapter 3: ... Types of Igneous Rocks
- Chapter 4: ... Types of Volcanoes
- Chapter 5: ... The Cretaceous Seas of Southern Arizona and the Rocky Mountain Region
- Chapter 6: ... Amole Lake
- Chapter 7: ... Pre-Caldera Stratovolcanoes
- Chapter 8: ... The Tucson Mountains Volcanic Caldera, Ash-Flow Tuffs, Chaotic Megabreccias, Post-collapse Lava Flows, and Magmatic Intrusions
- Chapter 9: ... The Southern Arizona Caldera Field
- Chapter 10: ... How Long Does it Take to Build a Volcano?
- Chapter 11: ... Rock Formations in the Tucson Mountains
- Chapter 12: ... Convergent Plate Margins and the Laramide Orogeny
- Chapter 13: ... Mid-Tertiary Volcanism
- Chapter 14: ... Mineralization
- Chapter 15: ... Porphyry Copper Deposits
- Chapter 16: ... Detachment Faulting and the Roots of the Tucson Mountains Volcanic Caldera
- Chapter 17: ... Ice-Age Mammals
- Chapter 18: ... Recent Sedimentary and Erosional Processes

Appendix: ... Minerals in the Tucson Mountains
Glossary
References