

The Galileo spacecraft took this picture of the Moon as it traveled to explore the Jupiter system. What created the circular features and the streaks that stretch away from them?

The really bright crater with the long streaks - rays - at the bottom of the picture is Tycho Crater.

Credit: US Geological Survey (<http://photojournal.jpl.nasa.gov/catalog/PIA00405>)