

NLSI Lunar Science Conference Student Poster Competition

The NASA Lunar Science Institute (NLSI) is pleased to sponsor the Student Poster Competition at the NLSI Lunar Science Conference, July 20–23, 2008. This event will provide motivation, encouragement, and most of all, recognition to the most promising lunar scientists of the future.

There will be 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place selections with awards of $1500, $1000, and $500 respectively.

Eligibility Requirements:

- Participants must be enrolled in a degree program at the time of abstract submission (selected students will be asked to sign a statement of eligibility).
- The award is intended primarily for students at the graduate level; however, individuals at the undergraduate level are also eligible to compete.
- Postdocs are NOT eligible
- Eligibility is open to both U.S. citizens and non-U.S. citizens

Abstract Requirements:

- Only one abstract per student will be considered for an award.
- The student must be the senior author of the abstract and the major contributor to the material presented, and the person presenting the poster.
- The majority of the material should not have been previously presented at another meeting.

Criteria for Selection:

- Originality of the research
- Quality of the execution
- Impact to the field of lunar science
- Clarity of presentation, including accessibility to the non-expert

Student Poster Display and Handling Information:

- There are no shipping or receiving services available, so posters must be carried to the conference.
- Poster size should be approximately 36" H x 48" W.
- Foam core and pushpins will be provided with which to display posters.
- Further instructions will be provided as the conference approaches.

If you meet the eligibility requirements listed above, visit the NLSI website at http://lunarscience.arc.nasa.gov/events/poster\_registration to register for the competition.
