

Girls STEAM Ahead with NASA Announcement to Libraries

- The Universe of Learning collaborated with NASA @ My Library to announce Girls STEAM Ahead with NASA to the extensive STAR_Net network of libraries
- Press release issued: “<http://www.ala.org/news/member-news/2017/02/public-libraries-invited-apply-nasa-my-library-stem-initiative>”
- Libraries are encouraged to partner with the NASA’s Universe of Learning science education program throughout the spring to empower women’s success in STEM starting from when they are young
- Events are open to all family members, regardless of gender, but focus on engaging girls in science using field-tested, hands-on activities
- The first events for Girls STEAM Ahead with NASA kick off during Women’s History Month in March 2017, and will continue through the spring/summer
- This partnership between NASA SMD-funded Science Education Teams will continue in February when NASA @ My Library will also host a webinar featuring an activity librarians can use in their Girls STEAM Ahead with NASA event!

