OPAG Newsletter
24 February 2014

1. Next OPAG meeting
2. Save the date, for Ice Giant Workshop
3. Discovery announcement feedback
4. Rings workshop announcement

1111111111111111111111111111111111111111111111111111111111111111

The next OPAG meeting will be held July 23-24, somewhere in the DC area.

2222222222222222222222222222222222222222222222222222222222222222

Mark your calendars for the Ice Giants Workshop, to be held July 28 – 30, at John Hopkins University /Applied Physics Lab.

3333333333333333333333333333333333333333333333333333333333333333

A community announcement regarding the next Discovery AO is posted on NSPIRES (http://nspires.nasaprs.com/external/solicitations/summary.do?method=init&solId={0CA4625F-7B23-C1F5-9FC5-E695B3F0A50D}&path=future). Community feedback is solicited – you can email comments to Michael New, or you can direct your comments to Candy Hansen (cjhansen@psi.edu) for inclusion in a response the OPAG committee is drafting.

4444444444444444444444444444444444444444444444444444444444444444

The Cassini Rings Working Group will hold a several day Planetary Rings Workshop in the summer of 2014. The workshop will be open to all interested parties, and any observational or theoretical research on the properties, dynamics, origin, or evolution of any planetary ring system is appropriate.

For more information go to:
http://www.lpi.usra.edu/planetary_news/2014/02/18/planetary-rings-workshop-2014/